2. Profile Competitiveness & Target Score Matrix

Evaluate your work experience, GPA, leadership, and diversity to compute your minimum and safe test score targets.

Applicant Profile Category	Key Profile Attributes	Minimum Viable GMAT Focus	Safe Competitive Target Score
Over-Represented (IT / Engg Male)	4 yrs software/tech services, Tier 2/3 college, high GPA	685 (95th %ile)	715+ Focus / 328+ GRE
High-Finance / MBB Consulting	Top tier bulge bracket or strategy consulting, Tier 1 college	655 (86th %ile)	685+ Focus / 324+ GRE
Non-Traditional / Arts / NGO	Social sector, public policy, creative media, entrepreneurship	635 (79th %ile)	665+ Focus / 320+ GRE
Under-Represented / Diversity	Women in STEM, exceptional sports/military, unique industry	645 (83rd %ile)	675+ Focus / 322+ GRE
Experienced Professional (7+ Yrs)	Significant managerial impact, global projects, team leadership	635 (79th %ile)	665+ Focus / 320+ GRE

Admissions Principle: Your test score opens the door; your essays, recommendations, and interview earn the admit.

3. Strategic Score Evaluation & Retake Decision Protocol

A four-step framework to determine whether a retake is warranted before submitting applications.

- Step 1: Compare your official score with the school median. If you are >= 20 points below the median, an automatic retake is recommended.
- Step 2: Check sectional balance. Even with a high total, a quant or verbal percentile below 60th percentile raises red flags with admissions committees.
- Step 3: Audit recent practice mock scores. If your official score was 30+ points lower than your average of GMAC Mocks 3-6, your score was suppressed by test anxiety and a retake will yield higher results.
- Step 4: Assess round timeline. If retaking pushes you from Round 1 to Round 2, retake if your score can jump by 30+ points. Do not delay application to Round 3.
